

Free toolkit: Use ESSER to expand access to books & increase equity

Government relief funding is helping to meet education challenges from COVID-19 and create tomorrow's brighter future. The $190 billion Elementary and Secondary School Emergency Relief (ESSER) Fund, part of the Education Stabilization Fund, is a once-in-a-generation opportunity for K-12 schools to champion literacy in their districts like never before.

And with educators' needs in mind, we've curated a variety of free resources to help you get the most out of this government funding. We'll help you learn how to use ESSER/ESF to expand access — for every student — to the books you need through the Sora student reading app.

OUR FREE RESOURCES INCLUDE:

- The Diversity for Literacy Collection can help you evaluate your digital library to make sure it's meeting the needs of all your students.
- The K-12 Funding Champion Toolkit has answers to frequently asked questions as well as proposal templates and success stories to help you increase access to reading.
- A Case Study: How Massachusetts schools meet demand for digital with CARES Act funding
